A Letter to the Batch of 2020 and their Parents

Simrat Pal Singh Satia , Journalist at The Alliance

100k Views

You entered the gates of NSIT, with butterflies in your stomach, uneasy about the life you'll be leading for the next four years, wondering how things will turn out. Or maybe you came in, pumped with confidence, certain that you'll be accomplishing wonders in the years to come. But more likely than not, you came here, hoping that you'll leave as a better version of yourself (along with a hefty package hopefully!).

After years of perseverance and turmoil of academics and coaching institutes, you've finally been able to achieve a milestone in life by reaching this prestigious institution. Our heartiest congratulations to you, but, dear fresher, the true journey of life has just begun. Your school was a protective cocoon, shielding you from the harsh realities of life. But, at NSIT, you'll be the master of your own will, free to do as you desire. So remember that with great power, comes great responsibility.

The first week of college is about breaking the ice among your batchmates. You'll spend the next 8 semesters of your college life with these very people. So, taking the first step of friendship is the wisest thing to do. Following the first week, you'll be enthralled by the various events organized specially for you - the official and unofficial freshers' parties, NSITthon and Resonanz wherein you'll gather a bundle of memories and cherish them for the rest of your life. That's the beauty of college life - it is never dull, except during the semester examinations. So make each day count.

As for the academic pressure, study, but try not to earn the tag of ghissu. Bunking classes once in a while won't do you much harm either. Try not to be the one spoiling the mass bunks, otherwise you'll be cursed for a lifetime.

Seniors will be your guardian angels throughout your journey at NSIT. Desperate for notes? Want someone to talk to regarding girlfriend issues? In dire need of some random life advice? Seniors will always come through for you. But mind you, address them as Sir/Ma'am, kyunki bhaiya toh McCain wale bhi hai!

Dear parents, your child has accomplished something commendable, something which most couldn't fathom to achieve and it surely is a proud moment for you. They have successfully proven their mettle and demonstrated that they are better than 'Sharmiji ka beta', but now, the path that lies ahead of them isn't a cakewalk and would redefine their entire life. You might find them having turned over a new leaf. But change is refreshing, isn't it? Soon, they'll be joining the ranks of successful engineers and in no time, you'll take pride in their achievements and in the person they would have then become.

To the batch of 2020, we'd like to say,

*"As you leave your home to set sail on a journey
With a favoring wind and a flowing tide, with a quiet sea and a star to guide,
May you sail to the isles of greatness beyond the blue,
May your ship reach home and may your dreams come true."*

Soumya Bisht wrote Unofficial Freshers - Your Induction Into The Famed College Life

August 16th

If you thought that choices in life became easier after choosing NSIT over DTU, wait till you have to choose a freshers party! Unofficial fresher parties at NSIT are no less than the US Presidential elections and you are bestowed with the most powerful rights of them all - the right to choose. From publicity posts, posters, memes and videos to flocking classes, dispensing life-altering gyaan, early bird discounts and group discounts, each senior will manage to convince you that their party in the next biggest glitzy club, has the best food, the best DJ, the best dancing experience, the best location and of course, the best possible way to interact. But amidst the barrage of over-aggressive party publicity, you need to make an informed and wise decision. Choose a party where your friends are going to, because more than all the glitz and the glamour, what will stay with you are the memories. And those, just so you know my friend, are also made under the shade of the trees in the Nescii lawns. Happy deciding!

Perez Yeptho wrote Food Joints

August 16th

"There is no sincerer love than the love of food." — George Bernard Shaw

Here, at NSIT, there are several small joints to tease the taste-buds but the real magic, as you will soon discover, is beyond the gates of the campus. Here is a rundown of what you need to know to survive, thrive and feel alive in our little corner of Dwarka.

Khokha

Cheap . For the Chillers

"Excellent place to chill and relax after a long day at college. This place will make you believe in magic and make you wish passive smoking wasn't a thing. Don't miss out on the Cheese Maggi!"

Dwarka mor

McCain/Just Cafe

Cheap . Cafeteria

"With a wide variety of dishes and beverages available, you'll soon have your own favourites, which will inevitably lead to heated arguments with your friends. Just be careful, not everything is available on the menu."

Near Boys' Hostel

Mini Zayca

Cheap . Convenient

"Right next to the Admin Block, this is an absolute godsend for those needing a quick bite between classes. Be warned though, a small and unimpressive menu soon becomes insufficient."

Adjacent to the Admin Block

New Zayca

Medium . Casual Dining

"A much better experience than its in-campus cousin, be sure to check out the momos and the rooftop experience."

Sector 4

Main Zayca

Medium . Casual Dining

"If one has to quickly eat some real food between classes and is far too lazy to leave the campus, this will be the place you'll find them for lunch. However, the quality is a far cry from the Zayca in Sector-4."

Adjacent to the Library

Pizza Yum

Cheap . Delivery . Pizza Fast Food

"Look out for the several offers available at this place; you won't be disappointed with the variety of pizzas. There's always something for everyone, even if it's cramped."

"There are several comparable restaurants near Dwarka Mor Metro Station such as Pizza Way's, Pizza Circle and of course your run-off-the-mill Domino's and Pizza Hut."

Dwarka Mor

Drool Kitchen

Medium-Expensive . Casual Dining

"A place for all your North Indian, Chinese and Italian cravings; this place will definitely not disappoint you one bit."

"Ramphal Chowk in general has plenty of great food joints that you can try out for yourself! Just be careful not to get lost and/or robbed."

Sector 10

Dwarka Mor Stalls

Medium . Stalls

"Some of the best value-for-money-meals can be found here for those who can take the less than stellar sanitation of the area. Also, the juice corner is just about the best beverage available in this little corner of Dwarka."

Dwarka Mor

Spiceshot

Medium-Expensive . Semi- Fine Dining

"A place where you will want to celebrate a senior's placement or your first cash prize. Don't forget to ask for that NSIT discount or the fact that they serve more than just great food!"

Sector 11

And don't forget all these fast food chains:

KFC

Sector 4

McDonald's

Sector 4

CCD

Ashirwad Chowk

Burger King

Sector 10

Dunkin' Donuts

Sector 5

HT City posted on its event Fresh On Campus @NSIT

September 4th

Dora's and Diego's - the explorer fuchhas aside, chances are that two months and an unofficial freshers party later, you aren't entirely aware of your seniors, teachers or your campus as one would guess. Fear not because September shall come soon and with that, so shall your initiation into the legendary college life. The event, organised by HT City every year, may be called official freshers but the main motto lies in winning the coveted best branch after a gruesome battle of music, dance and drama.

The days leading to the event will be a series of bunking classes, auditioning for a chance to participate (Note : the auditions aren't hard to crack and we highly recommend that you participate), meeting seniors and making tonnes of friends from your respective branch.

For all the fuchhas who believe that they can shine solo, your moment is here! A chance to win various titles with Mr. and Ms. Freshers being the ultimate title everyone vies for. So remember to dress to impress but we strongly recommend that you don't bother going over-the-top since we all are, after all, seedhe-saadhe engineers who wear pyjamas to class.

When the day finally arrives, you will find yourselves clicking million photos with your classmates (See ? You finally bonded with them !), dancing away and cheering your throats dry for your branch (Also note : COE has a very strong cheer-leading squad ! Infact, legend says, the Boys Hostel even sees seniors rehearse how to cheer with their juniors a night before the freshers

!) Your hard work bears fruit when you finally hear that your branch has won and you are promised a treat by your seniors that never really comes to fruition, to be honest ( this year may see a change. Never stop trying !). But most of all, you finally have enough memories that can translate into an adventurous little story that you can relay to all those who called you a ghissu in 12th !

Happy Exploring !

Dayskis Vs Hostellers

by Soumya Bisht

Welcome to NSIT! And welcome to the never-ending feud between the two warring families.

Now, it is your turn to pick sides. Proceed with utmost caution for, your decision shall pave the way for all your decisions in the future. The dilemma is indeed real and here are the things which we believe you should keep in mind while deciding which group you should swear loyalty to -- the Dayski's or the Hostellers :

Nsit Curfew: The Race against time

Hostels have curfews. Period. Girls' Hostel has 8:30 pm carved onto their biological clock for life while, the curfew time of Boys' hostel is a joke. But in the Admin's defense, all activities in the campus usually wrap up by 8 pm and in case of fests, the curfew is extended to a decent enough time. The dayski's may face similar curfews in the form of parents setting down restrictions or the restriction faced due to the distance of your house from the campus -- either ways, every NSITian is, in some way or the other, a Cinderella at midnight except for the fact that at NSIT, midnight is always 8:30 pm. Just the tiny part wherein hostellers wake up 15 minutes before class and dayski's are forced to start their day before the sun does.

Winner : Hosteller

Raat baaki. Always :

Birthdays at midnights in the hostel are quite the sight. And not just birthdays. No event for hostellers ends at the venue. It is always carried on in the hostel. Midnight cakes, impromptu dance parties, movie nights-- you name it and the hostellers have nailed it. The hostel is like a whole new world and you will definitely end up having a huge hostel- squad that you share your ups and downs with. Also, evening walks are the best!

Winner : Hosteller

Kahani Khaane-khaane Ki

No matter how happy you are with the variety of dishes on the mess menu, wait for a week and you shall find tiny flaws in everything you eat and the monotony of a fixed menu will annoy you so much so that you will crave even the karela your mom cooks. The amount you spend eating out will increase exponentially with your stay in the hostel. Dear dayski, well aren't you a lucky sunshine? On that note, please pack a little extra in your dabbas for your hosteller friends (sachhi dosti ki shuruaat)

Winner : Dayski's

Padhai ho na ho ?

Well, well, well. For all those who think hostels are the place where your minds will magically start focusing on studies, you are awfully wrong. Unless you are a tapasvi who knows no moh maaya, it is highly unlikely that you'll sit to study before the nights of the exams. Dayski's however, have their parents monitoring their studies and that is something that hostellers crave -- just someone to snatch their mobiles away.

Winner : Dayskis

Fests, fests and, fests. Aur NSIT 'fests' hai

Logistics work is usually done by hostellers and that sees lot many strong bonds formed between students of all years. However, dayski's needn't worry for, you can stay in the hostel during the bigger fests like Moksha. Talk about having the best of both worlds, right ?

Winner : Nobody, really.

Others

Your transformation into a gharelu bai: Dayski's don't face that. Plus, they have AC and nice wifi.

Jungle tours : Nobody knows the campus as good as a hosteller does. If you are a dayski, befriend hostellers

Money or nothing : While the hostellers manage to save the money which dayski's spend on travelling daily, the eating out takes an equal toll on their pockets.

Vandana Miglani shared a memory Resonanz'15 from October 2015

October 3rd

Till now, what I experienced in NSIT was merely a magnified version of what I did in school (except of course, the added freedom to bunk classes!). What has truly changed my opinion though, was our intra-college fest Resonanz. From the Natyamanch on Day 1 to the Mr. and Ms. Resonanz on Day 3, each event was more enjoyable than the previous.

As a participant of the Rangmanch, the interbranch dance competition, I had the opportunity to interact with the seniors of my branch and batch mates from other sections, with whom I didn't have much contact before. The perks of being a participant are undeniable. I became aware of what actually takes place behind the scenes, in making the fests happen- how each event rises from just planning on paper to its final execution. There was just so much to learn and explore.

In addition to Rangmanch, I also witnessed other events. Natyamanch, the dramatics event, saw enthusiastic participation from first and second years alike, with the plays conveying messages about social issues humorously. Mr. and Ms. Resonanz also saw a packed auditorium. The candidates were made to endure challenging rounds, followed by the personal interview, which was reported to be gruelling. Then came Panache, the Fashion Parade, which quite literally blew my mind and left the entire audience spellbound.

Words would fall short to describe this enthralling experience. I now appreciate the hype that is created around fests. They serve as a break from the monotony of everyday schedule of an engineering college and at the same time, provide a platform for showcasing our talents, interaction with our peers, honing personal skills and grooming oneself.

I just can't wait for Moksha now!

📌 The NSIT Quiz Fest is the annual quizzing festival organised by The NSIT Quiz Club, one of the most renowned and respected quiz clubs in the country. Ranked among the top competitive quiz festivals in Delhi, this year, it witnessed a participation of students from over 75 colleges and schools, over a period of 3 days in the month of March. The quizzes promised something for everyone, with a wide variety of questions across different themes - sports, business, entertainment, general, music, India, science and mythology. Several of these quizzes were open to all, thus inviting participation from students and professionals alike. The participants enthusiastically engaged in a battle of wits and the winners were awarded with cash prizes. Over the years, the NSIT Quiz Fest has witnessed the participation of some of the most popular names of Indian quizzing such as Joy Bhattacharjya, Avinash Mudaliar, Samanth Subramanian, Dr. Subrojit and Vikram Joshi as well.

📌 Colloquium, The Annual Debating and Literary Festival of NSIT, organized by The Debating Society, was held in the month of March. One of the biggest debating festivals in the DU Circuit, it witnessed around 5000 debating and literary enthusiasts. As many as seven different committees were simulated this year, judged by an experienced Executive Board, whose presence definitely added to the participants' experience. In addition, a series of other engaging competitions, such as a Parliamentary debate, a conventional debate and a case study competition were also organized with exciting prizes up for grabs. Also, two panel discussions, featuring renowned personalities like CK Raju and author Satyajit Nair, were held. To lighten up the mood, the festival also invited participants for an evening of Slam Poetry. With each passing year, Colloquium raises the bar and the plethora of events provide opportunities for everyone to grow and learn.

📌 Consilium - The NSIT Business Conclave is an inter-college fest organized by the Finance and Economics Society of NSIT and is considered amongst the best in the Delhi circuit. Held in the month of February, it calls out to all the potential economists to seize the opportunity to hone their financial and economical skills, through a series of well-organized competitions. The Conclave commenced with an interactive session with notable alumni, working in some of the world's finest institutions, as speakers. The offline round acted as the preliminary stage, and teams which cleared it were invited to participate in the on-campus rounds, judged by a panel of individuals, suitable for the respective events because of their experience in the same. A wide variety of challenges were arranged including Mock Stock (simulating the trading of stocks, testing the participants' spontaneity), The White Collar Job, Samavesh, Brokers' Paradise and many more.

📌 Entrepreneurial Summit, more commonly known as E-Summit is E-Cell NSIT's very own fest. E-Cell at NSIT aims to function as a starting point for students with innovative ideas, which can change the face of the industry, and who also have the enthusiasm to convert the idea envisioned by them into an enterprise. To promote these necessary qualities and search for such talented individuals, E-Cell organizes this annual fest. With young entrepreneurs, organized events, puzzling and inspiring competitions, this fest aims to induce the entrepreneurial passion within the participants. It consisted of 3 events - eNNOVATE, The Sherlock Diaries (Case Study Competition) and the Marketing Maestro, which assessed the contestants on qualities which are deemed important for a successful entrepreneur such as - passion, determination, spontaneity, the ability to move out of their comfort zone, to challenge themselves and be practical.

📌 Virasat, organized by Spic Macay NSIT aimed to reunite all of us to our Indian roots. Renowned and gifted artists from all fields - music, dance, art and cinema, were invited to perform. Their presentations took everyone on a spellbinding journey, by the end of which, everyone appreciated and fell a little more in love with our heritage. The stage of the Main Auditorium witnessed the likes of prominent artists like renowned Kathak danseuse Shovana Narayana, sitar player Ustad Irshad Khan, Qawwali exponents the Warsi Brothers and many more. In addition to the events, a heritage walk was also organized to the Rashtrapati Bhawan, wherein a group of around 30 students were allowed to enter and explore the President's residence. The fest succeeded in achieving its aim of promoting the vibrant Indian culture and making students feel a sense of pride about it.

📌 Kriti, the annual fest of Prayaas, formerly The Neighbourhood Project, is organized every year in April and provides a wonderful platform not only for underprivileged children, but also for nearby NGOs. More than 50 NGOs attended, in order to collectively work on the challenges faced by the children, and the means to overcome them. For students, a medical camp was conducted ed where every student underwent a complete health check-up by a team of experts. Apart from this, there were several competitions lined up for the participating children, ranging from painting and quizzes to a talent hunt. The event was concluded by the announcement of the Best NGO, which was decided on the count of prizes that students from the respective NGOs bagged in individual competitions. Over the years, the Prayaas family has contributed massively for the welfare of the less fortunate through their fest and regular teaching work.

#Moksha&Inno Having An Absolute Blast!

The Big Two of NSIT are finally here in all their glory. It's time to pack up your best stitches and shift to the hostels, for these fests are just as fun at night as they are in the day. There will be a plethora of events happening all around you and you'll be spoilt for choice when it comes to food. Dream about a ball dance under the Admin Bridge? Fancy a few shots at the laser tag arena?

Why not check out the fashion parade? Is that Naveen Kasturia?

The sheer scale of the entire occasion will leave you dizzy (if nothing else does), and you'll definitely be interested in one of the several cultural events that will be taking place at night, be it the music or the dance or the comedy shows. Or maybe not. Maybe you want to explore your own talent and give a try at the competitive events that are happening during the daytime. Drama? Check. Poetry? Check. Coding? Check. Robotics? Check. Dance? Double check. These events will blow your mind and somehow everyday life will never be the same again, as the memories come back each day as you sit by another lecture, daydreaming about the things in store for you the next year.

The first year is nearly finished and soon enough you'll get to brag about stories of your college life to all of your juniors. Congratulations on making it this far, it must truly have been a ride.
